Meeting Tonight

Numerous fire truck bids ranging in price from $2,350 to $12,500 were submitted to the city commission last night. The commission is to meet again tonight to go over the various bids and consider the specifications. Bids were submitted from outside firms with two exceptions. The R. B. Loubek Motor company of Bismarck, submitted bids on the Reo speed wagon equipped with fire apparatus and the Bismarck Motor company of which C. Bertsch, Jr. is the head submitted bids on White chassis equipped with fire fighting apparatus. One of the local companies offered to take warrants for half the price of the apparatus.

After the opening of the bids the commissioners listened to talks by salesmen on their fire-fighting equipment and their ability to give service required by the specifications. One of the requirements was that the bidder have a service station with $60,000 worth of parts on hand within 500 miles of Bismarck. Bids were not received from a few well-known makers of fire apparatus which do business mainly in eastern centers, presumably because this requirement could not be complied with.

He said in part: "The city water during the month of the month was not in a condition for drinking unless boiled. There has been reported, to detective chlorine apparatus and to sediment in the reservoir. FAULTY PAVING PERMITTED SAYS TURNER REPORT

Blames Condition He Said Was Permitted Because Better Material Could Not Be Had
SUBMITTED TO CITY BODY
Discuss Condition in Downtown
Paving and Advises Methods of Remedying it

C. A. P. Turner, St. Paul engineer employed by the city to have tests made of paving in the downtown district which has been alleged to be defective in a report to the city commission says that the sub-pavement is lacking in hardness, and in some places is somewhat disintegrated, which he attributes to use of an excess of silt and clay in the aggregate. The use of the material was permitted under the specifications by the city engineer.

The city commission sometime ago demanded that the contractors for the paving in the downtown district repair it, the paving crumbling in several places. Representatives of the contractors were here and the city undertook further investigation.

The Turner report follows: "The sub-pavement is lacking in hardness and in places is somewhat disintegrated. Lack of hardness I attribute to the use of aggregate containing an excess of silt and clay permitted under the specifications. Because a better material was difficult to secure."

The water was not heated during the chilly weather when the concrete base was placed, and the cement was undoubtedly chilled in the stage of hardening and but partially cured when the top coat was applied. The application of hot asphalt surface coat would cause by its heat sweating and temporary softening of the partially cured concrete base with resulting crumbling under rolling of the finish coat.

"The necessity for heating the water in cold and chilly weather at date this pavement was laid was not generally recognized as is the case today."

The acceptance of the work and final payment under the contract tends to limit the liability of the contractor to the terms of the maintenance bond to wit keeping the pavement in condition not detrimental to traffic.

The base has kept in shape where the slope is ample. The conditions regarding drainage are those encountered in every growing city. In fact, on every catch basin are first placed as far apart as they can be expected to do service. As streets are paved and buildings covering the area between the streets are erected the rapidity of run-off is greatly increased and the original drainage becomes inadequate except where the slope is steep. On east and west streets additional catch basins in the center of the block and connecting sewers are recommended to divide the slope in quarter block lengths.

"We are of the opinion that the sub-pavement will maintain its grade as it has done in the central portion of the streets with this improvement in drainage and the elimination of the standing water by this improved grade will prevent rotting the asphalt and will insure service for a long period."

"After constructing the new catch basins the needed grade may be secured by adding to the thickness of the surface coat at a reasonable expense."

Infer from the discussion of the matter at our meeting that the contractor was puzzled and disappointed to find the base in the condition described by inspection and that to render the work creditable in surface appearance for a reasonable period after a guarantee of maintenance has expired he might be inclined to re-grade the gutters after improved drainage has been provided.

ARBUCKLE CASE WITNESS ALTERS STORY, CHARGED

Prosecutor Says Perjury is Committed and Sees "Sinister Influence"

FATTY TO GRAND JURY

Refuses to Make Statement on Advice of His Attorneys,
It Is Said

San Francisco, Sept. 13—A statement expressing the conviction that perjury had been committed by one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution at the grand jury investigation last night of the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, film actress for whom alleged murder Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle is under arrest was issued here early today by District Attorney Matthew Brady. The grand jury adjourned for an indefinite period at this morning.

District Attorney Brady in the statement also charged that he believes undue influence and pressure of a sinister character has been brought to bear upon certain witnesses.

In his statement Brady charged that Miss Zey Provost also known as Zey Pyron had changed her testimony before the grand jury from that she had given previously to police and officials of the district attorney's office that Miss Rappe had told her Arbuckle had caused her injuries.

Witness Said Missing
Brady also charged in his statement that Miss Alice Blake, another prosecution witness was missing. His statement follows:

"We have sent Miss Pyron home under surveillance. The girl changed her story completely before the grand jury. Whether or not we shall arrest her and charge her with perjury will depend on further developments. I am convinced however that perjury has been committed by her."

"I am convinced that undue influence and pressure of a sinister character has been brought to bear on her and other witnesses, one of whom, Alice Blake has mysteriously disappeared from her home in Berkeley. We have been unable to find her. In spite of these efforts to thwart the ends of justice the investigation will proceed."

Whenever wealth and influence are brought to the bar of justice every sinister and corrupt practice is used in an effort to free the accused. It is always easy to convict a poor man. The wealthy malefactors are the ones who find means to use wealth to their advantage."

REDUCTIONS IN STOCK RATES TO AID FAR WEST

Will Not Help North Dakota,
However, According to Commission Traffic Man

Washington, Sept. 11—Reductions by western railroads in rates on cattle, hogs and sheep in the opinion of the Interstate Commerce Commission will prove of material benefit to the western livestock raisers who have been heavily affected by the rapid decline in livestock price since July, 1921.

The commission expressed the belief today in announcing it had authorized the reduction proposed by the carriers which will become effective Sept. 20 and amounts to 20 per cent in cases where the present rates are higher than 50 cents a hundred pounds but in no case decrease the rate below 50 cents a hundred.

Under the new tariff practically all rates from points west of the Missouri river to Chicago and from all points west of the Rocky Mountains to the Mississippi river will be reduced in amounts ranging from 1 to 25 cents a hundred pounds. Similar reductions in other livestock rates now higher than 50 cents a hundred are to be made the commission said. In many cases it was stated the entire increase made in August, 1920 will be eliminated by the new tariff. The commission estimated that the decrease would mean an additional reduction of revenue from the carriers at $10,000,000 annually.

The reductions as outlined above do not affect North Dakota except a few instances where shippers ship direct to the Chicago market over the Milwaukee according to V. F. Smart traffic expert for the state railroad commission. All other shipments from west of the Missouri river to Chicago are made on a combination rate which is not affected by Mr. Smart said. The minimum is not higher than 9 cents on other North Dakota shipments he said and there is no benefit to North Dakota in this action of the carriers.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE

FIND NEW CITIES OF ANCIENT MAYA

Carnegie Institution's Central American Expedition Makes Important Discoveries.

OLD CAPITAL IS EXCAVATED

Greatest Native Civilization Which America Produced Once Flourished in What is Now Desolate and Forgotten Region.

Washington—After having discovered and unearthed ancient and forgotten cities that once were the center of America's civilization and after having begun to recover the ancient learning for the Maya people from their Indian descendants, the Carnegie Institution Central American expedition for 1931 which penetrated the region of Guatemala in the department of Peten, at the base of the Yucatan peninsula, has returned to this city.

The expedition, under the direction of Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, associate in American archeology of the institution, left Washington early in January. The other investigators were Dr. C. E. Guthe and William Gates, both research associates of the institution.

The activities of the field season consisted of the exploration of the forests of northern Peten in search for new centers of this ancient civilization under the direction of Doctor Morley, the excavation of Tayasal, the last Itza (a Maya tribe) capital located upon an island in the Lake of Peten Itza, in northern central Peten by Doctor Guthe, and a first-hand study of the Maya language as spoken today in northern British Honduras, and also by the Quiche, a Maya tribe living in the highlands of Guatemala, by Mr. Gates.

Unearth Ancient Cities.

Following along the chicle (the substance from which chewing gum is made) trails which traverse this region, Doctor Morley's party discovered several new cities during the course of the field season, in what appears to have been the very heart of the old Maya empire.

Doctor Guthe's excavations at Tayasal proved equally fruitful. The principal plaza of that city was located, and the work of clearing away the earth and fallen masonry from the principal structures was commenced.

The peninsula of Yucatan juts up into the Gulf of Mexico like the great thumb of a giant hand, pointing northward. It is 250 miles wide, and before it finally takes root in the continental land mass far to the south, gradually merging into the foothills of the Cordillera, it is 400 miles long.

This region, a limestone formation of recent geological age, has gradually emerged from the floor of the Caribbean sea, and is now overgrown with a dense sub-tropical jungle. It supports, in fact, an almost continuous forest of mahogany, rubber, Santa Maria, celiba, chicle-sapote (the "chewing gum" tree), and many other sub-tropical trees, which so completely covers the country that one may travel in this bush for days without seeing an open space large enough to accommodate a modern bungalow comfortably.

In this now desolate and forgotten region there developed during the first fifteen centuries of the Christian era the greatest native civilization which America produced, namely, that of the ancient Maya of southern Mexico and northern Central America.

Here great cities grew up, filled with temples, pyramids, palaces and monasteries, built of finely carved limestone, which were grouped around paved squares and courts.

Once Brilliant People.

In these spacious plazas beautifully sculptured monuments were erected, their sides inscribed with elaborate hieroglyphic writings, setting forth important historical and astronomical facts. A dense population, highly organized under strongly centralized governments, flourished in the region, the vanguard of civilization in the New World.

But in the course of centuries pestilence, drought, civil war and famine overtook the Maya, so that when the Spaniards landed on the east coast of Yucatan in 1519, under Francisco de Montejo the last remnant of this once brilliant people fell an easy prey to the shock of foreign conquest and they were speedily reduced to dependence and slavery. Their once magnificent cities were abandoned, vast sections being actually depopulated, and the tropical jungle again crept over the region, until today these former centers of life and human activity lie buried in the grip of a dense forest, and crumbling walls and piles of fallen masonry overgrown with giant trees alone bear melancholy witness to former pomp and glory.

Investigations in this remote and inaccessible region may only be carried on under enormous difficulties. It is only very slowly with infinite pains and at high cost, that this region is being made to yield its archaeological secrets and the truth about our foremost native American civilization is gradually being made known.

MRS. SOUTHARD'S HUSBANDS

By N. E. A. Service

Twin Falls, Idaho, Sept. 12.—With Paul Vincent Southard, her fifth husband, staunchly supporting her, Mrs. Lyda Southard, 24, is on trial here today on a charge of having murdered her fourth husband, Edwin F. Meyers.

In addition to this the state charges that she murdered also three other husbands and a brother-in-law all within a period of six years.

Mrs. Southard (who since her arrest seven months ago in Honolulu maintains that deaths of her husbands were accidental, attributing them to the fact that she was a typhoid carrier).

Doctors who have examined several of the bodies of her former husbands say they did not die of typhoid fever. They say they found traces of arsenic poison.

The state will charge that Mrs. Southard obtained arsenic poison from the paper and that she murdered Meyers and other husbands in order to collect their insurance.

Following their marriage to Lyda, Husband No. 1 took out $4,500 in insurance, No. 2 took $500, No. 3 took $1,000 and Nos. 4 and 5 took $10,000 each.

The case has stirred Idaho greatly and is attracting the attention of the entire nation.

MAYTAG AGAIN CUTS WASHING MACHINE PRICE

Newton, Iowa, Sept. 12.—"The Maytag company is going to sell washing machines at prices which the people think they ought to pay." This is the sensational statement made today by L. B. Maytag, president of the company, when interviewed relative to the drastic cut in washing machine prices which becomes effective today.

The president of the largest washing machine factory in the world believes that consumption can be stimulated and the consequent capacity production result if manufacturers will price their products even lower than the raw material and labor costs would justify. He says it is not enough to take losses on materials on hand, but that the manufacturer must go one step further and anticipate the new low price levels for raw materials and labor which is almost upon us. This says Mr. Maytag, is the normalcy the consuming public wants and is the basis on which they will do business.

The new prices for Maytag washers show a reduction of 15 per cent from the 1920 scale. The leading model that sold for $120 will now sell for $77.50.

With the Movies

AT THE BISMARCK
When I met President Harding can now be added to Tom Mix's conversations. For Tom not only has met the President, but has discovered that both the chief executive and Mrs. Harding are among his ardent screen followers.

The William Fox star journeyed from California soon after he had completed "After Your Own Heart," which comes to the Bismarck theater. He arrived in New York and, instead of getting a vacation to see New York, found that New York wanted to see him. It was his first trip to the Metropolis in seventeen years—the first time since he became a screen favorite.

Then Tom journeyed to Washington, where President and Mrs. Harding received him with a splendid welcome. They were happy to meet Tom, as they had seen nearly all his pictures; and Tom, on his part, was as happy as a boy with a hero medal.

AT THE REX

In all the length and breadth of fiction there is no more picturesque a character than Hajji, the beggar of Baghdad. Edward Knoblock, the playwright, made Hajji famous in the stage version of "Kismet," and Otis Skinner, perhaps the best known and most popular actor in the country, immortalized Hajji during the years he gave life to this characterization on the stage.

This masterpiece of photo art will be at the Rex this coming Wednesday and Thursday.

was in care of a physician at the Crescent clubhouse last night and was said to be suffering from extreme nervousness.

Several hundred persons braved a mizzling rain and waited for more than an hour to see Miss Lenglen play. When she appeared on the courts, she was slow to get into the play. After the third game of the set, with the games two to one in her favor, she asked the opposing pair to let her rest a moment. Her playing was erratic and her stroking very soft at the end of the twelfth game, the score race-all, she was granted a fifteen minute rest on the side lines.

Upon resuming play she lost her nerve, and in changing courts informed the referee that she would retire after the set was completed.

Miss Morten played brilliantly in the last two games, making powerful plays in Miss Lenglen's territory at will. She netted or called every attempt at returns.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WHAT IS THE I. V. A. PROGRAM?

In yesterday's issue, The Tribune reprinted editorials from the Fargo Forum and Linton County Record which challenged The Tribune's position in the recall election.

The Record's opposition can be easily disposed of as The Tribune has repeatedly answered that charge of inconsistency. Editor Streeter agrees that The Tribune's attitude on state industries is sound and logical, but is willing to submit to another political upheaval even though the I. V. A. program promises the state practically a dose of the same thing. It is hard to combat such a stand logically. Of course in regard to those who merely want a change without respect to the issues involved, there is absolutely no use in arguing. They don't know where they are going but they simply want to be on their way. The Tribune is willing to allow The Record its pleasant position in limbo, but it refuses to climb on any bandwagon which is traveling along a road that parallels that of the Nonpartisan League's.

What is the I. V. A. program anyway?

Does it propose as the Forum states: "Salvage, Not Sabotage?"

The Tribune has failed to sense salvage in the I. V. A. program.

It proposes to repeal the League bond issue of $12,000,000 by imposing one of $7,750,000. That is, the program declares that a repeal is proposed, but just how far the repeal will become operative depends upon the bonds sold by the league at the time the constitutional amendment proposed becomes effective, if it passes at all.

If the I. V. A. felt sure of its own ground and were militantly confident that Nestos, Johnson and Kitchen would be elected, why the need of any constitutional amendment? There is sufficient power under the constitution now to salvage or apply sabotage without recourse to another bond issue.

Provided the I. V. A. idea is to play safe and rest in the hope that if its candidates fail and its laws pass, it can hamper and embarrass, why the presence of this constitutional amendment and of a mass of other laws is easily explained. But the voters should be told honestly that this is the motive.

Everyone knows that if the candidates on the I. V. A. ticket win, the laws proposed by the I. V. A. are unnecessary, for, under the present laws, the I. V. A. once in the saddle can travel the road of state socialism high, wide and handsome or the leaders of this organization can put the state out of the socialistic enterprises in a hurry.

To an honest, dispassionate and logical observer, this double barreled arrangement savors more of sabotage than salvage.

The Tribune opposes vigorously the two-faced program.

If it is the purpose of the I. V. A. to oust Frazier, Lemke and Hagan and clean house and restore the state to normalcy and representative government, then why was not that purpose honestly stated to the farmers and city dwellers? That would have been a cause worth fighting for.

But no, the I. V. A. program says this in effect: If we can oust Frazier, Lemke and Hagan, well and good, but failing to do that, we still have our laws to fall back upon. Tails I win and heads you lose.

Probably the voters of the state will fall for a program of this kind. It seems beyond the realm of reason that any fair minded people would challenge a state administration on such a flimsy program.

Now a word as to the Forum's appeal for salvage. The Tribune is for complete salvage. Not for salvage at Bismarck alone but at Grand Forks and Drake too. The I. V. A. program contemplates, not salvage at Grand Forks but the expenditure of millions more to do just what Frazier, Hagan and Lemke advocate: The continuation of the state in the mill and elevator business.

If the I. V. A. program stood for true salvage, it would sell, at a receiver's sale, the mill and elevator as it now stands at Grand Forks and the same kind of an institution that has been losing money at Drake and turn that money back to assist the political subdivisions whose money has been tied up in frozen assets. That would be honest salvage and a level headed business man would say so if his view were not warped by political expediency or private ambition. The state would be ahead, for if the mill and elevator ever opens its door at Grand Forks, as a money losing venture it will have the Bank of North Dakota looking like a peanut stand.

But at Bismarck, how is the program of salvage to be worked out. The Bank of North Dakota at Bismarck is to have its key turned in the door. There is going to be immediate and forced liquidation at Bismarck. Here the program differs from what is going to be done at Grand Forks. There the political pork will be preserved while Bismarck's pork barrel is going to be cleaned and scrapped in the interests of salvage. Let's be consistent. If we are going to wipe out Bismarck's pork and turn back the state money diverted in that enterprise, why not apply the same rule to Grand Forks and Drake?

The Tribune never stood for the Bank of North Dakota. It opposed it vehemently from the start and still is of the opinion that the state should get out of the banking business just as quickly as possible but if Grand Forks is going to have its mill and elevator pork as well as Drake, and Fargo, Mandan or some other point is going to have the rural credit bank, why should Bismarck sit up nights and assist the I. V. A. in moving the pork barrel from Bismarck to some other vantage point?

It is just as well for the business interests of Bismarck to study the I. V. A. program before jumping in head over heels into the recall. If the program is going to be salvage at Bismarck and expansion at Grand Forks, or sabotage at Bismarck and gambling with the public credit at Grand Forks or some other place in the name of "experiment," it is just as well for the citizens of the Missouri Slope and more especially of Bismarck to find out whether the recall after all is not a battle for a redivision and a reapportionment of the political spoils.

If there has been any dishonesty, any stealing of state funds, why does not the I. V. A. come to Bismarck and file information with States Attorney McCurdy and demand the arrest and removal from office of the offending officials through the courts?

Why resort to a recall a few months ahead of a primary election to place in power another coterie which professes to believe in the same thing and which seeks to gain the reins of power under the disguise of salvage? The I. V. A. program spells anything but salvage in its aim, however cleverly that intent is camouflaged.

The Great State of North Dakota had better wait until the issues are properly joined and in one mass action, repudiate socialism in every form and restore government to its orderly and effective functions.

OLD AGE

ART

The impoverished condition of the so-called intellectuals—authors and such—throughout Europe, as one of the war's results, is challenging the attention of the governments. They realize that man does not live by bread alone and that the spiritual and intellectual aspects of reconstruction are as important as the material aspects.

The Swiss government has pointed the way by appropriating $20,000 for the relief of needy Swiss authors, many of them are barely able to exist on their earnings. It seems that it is the custom of Swiss authors to deal with German publishers. They are paid in German marks which when exchanged for Swiss francs leaves them a mere pittance for their work.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

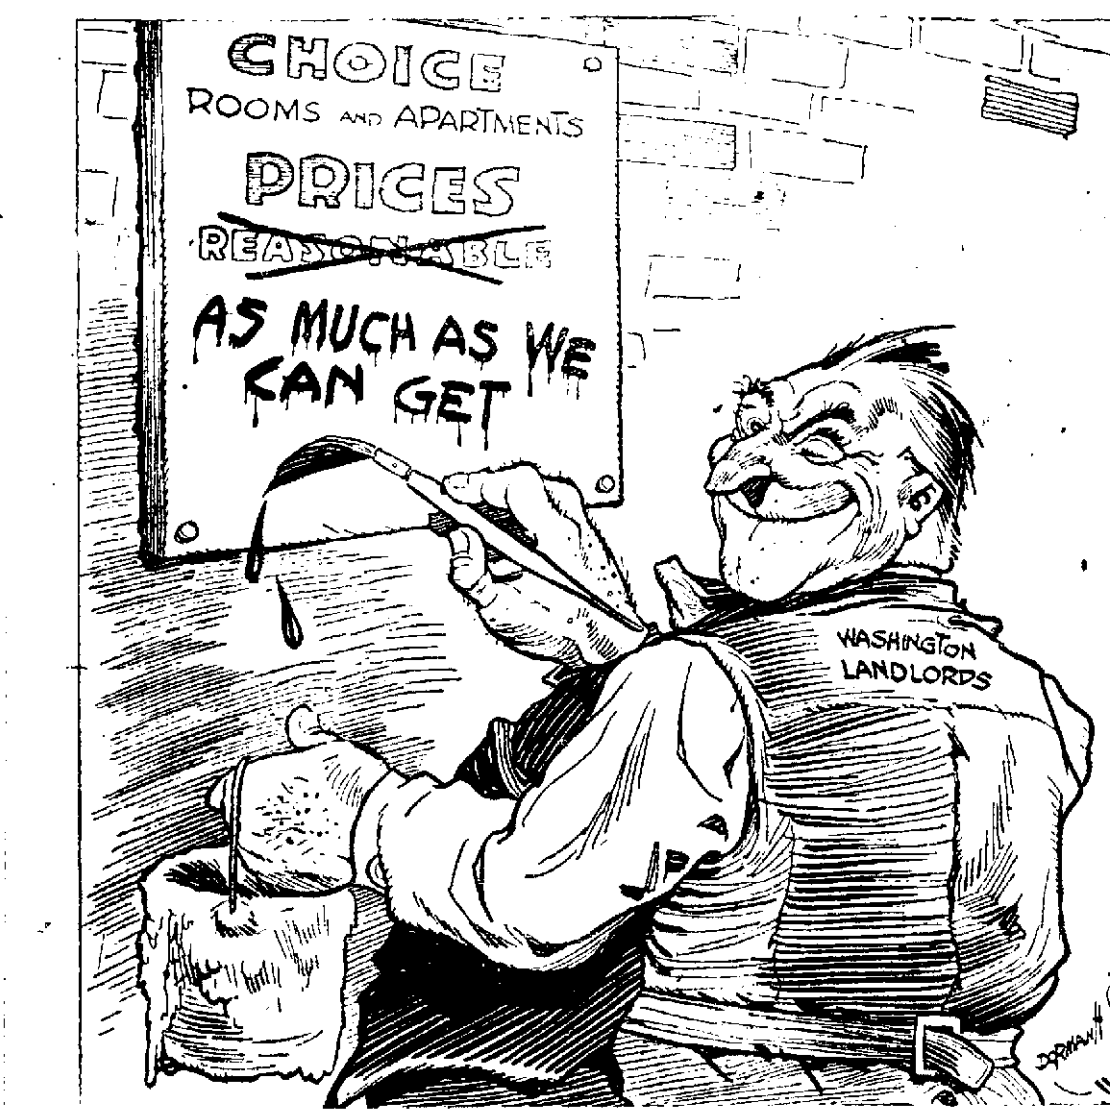

ATTORNEY GENERAL SPEAKS

A wholesome assertion of the obligation of obedience to law was made by Attorney General Daugherty in his address to the American Bar association. In particular his remarks on the enforcement of the legislation under the eighteenth amendment.

"Men may still debate as to the wisdom of the law," he said, "but there is only one course of conduct and that is obedience to the law while it exists."

That is the only possible position to take. If people were to select what laws they propose to obey confusion and anarchy would follow. It is a good thing to have the doctrine laid down by the supreme law officer of the United States.—Kansas City Star.

PREPARING A WELCOME FOR THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE DELEGATES

RECALL CAULDRON

By the Pot Boiler.

The Minneapolis Journal has this review of a book written by A. A. Bruce, former chief justice of the North Dakota supreme court:

"North Dakota's political phenomena are discussed with an intimate knowledge by Judge Andrew A. Bruce of Minneapolis in a book on 'The Nonpartisan League,' just published by McMillan & Co., of New York. Judge Bruce retired voluntarily from the North Dakota supreme bench to become professor of law at the University of Minnesota. In the last two years of his service on the bench he had a continual struggle with a Nonpartisan League majority of the judges, and a good part of the book is devoted to the issues raised before the court. It is brought down to date, however, with an account of the recent legislative session and the recall movement."

"It discusses the rumored alliance between the Nonpartisan League and the old McKenzie stalwart republicans, the growth of the farmers' co-operative movement and the failure of the recent efforts to reach a compromise and put the state on a solid financial basis."

"Seeing Prospect of Coalition. Discussing the current phase of North Dakota politics, Judge Bruce finds a prospect that the old line Alexander McKenzie republicans will combine again with the Nonpartisan League to defeat the Independents."

"It is by no means inconceivable that Alexander McKenzie may again sit in the throne room of North Dakota," Judge Bruce says in this chapter. "It is by no means impossible that the old or so-called McKenzie or standpat republicans may recognize the republican party of North Dakota and unite with the Nonpartisans against the Independents, or what is now termed the Independent Voters League." There was such a coalition, he says, when the league triumphed and Senator P. J. McCumber was re-elected in 1916, and when Senator A. J. Gronna was defeated in 1920. Now Senator McCumber is up for another term.

"Leaders Never Forgotten. "Much as McKenzie and McCumber dislike the economic policies of the league," says Judge Bruce, "much more do they personally dislike the leaders of the so-called Independent voters' movement, the majority of whom originally were insurgents and took a prominent part in the revolution of 1906. The leaders of this movement never have been forgiven nor have the politicians been forgiven who in 1916 joined with Governor Louis B. Hanna in his attempt to wrest the United States senatorship from Senator McCumber."

"But even if this coalition is made we can expect but little extension of state ownership or of state socialism. McCumber is at heart a conservative of the conservatives, and what is true of McCumber is true of McKenzie and of the whole stalwart following. They have aided the Nonpartisans, not because they hate the Nonpartisans and the socialists the less, but because they hate their former progressive republican opponents still more."

"Attempt to Control Courts. "Greatest of all the evils of the movement," Judge Bruce says in his final chapter, "is the attempt that the league has made to control the courts and to elect judges who are committed to its policies and who, being dependent for their election on the favors of the new political leaders, will to a greater or less extent be controlled by them."

"It lies in the in-American doctrine that the judge is not a judge but a representative, and that his function is not to administer the established law, leaving it to the legislature and the constitutional amendments to change that law and to keep it responsive to the growing needs of the age, but that his function is to be a representative merely."

"It lies in the doctrine that it is his duty to say to himself, 'Smith is right and Jones is wrong, but the primary elections are near, and Jones can and the voter, and that is who works with his hands is alone the toiler."

Judge Bruce discusses the co-operative movement, quoting President Harding's address at the Minnesota state fair, and Governor J. A. G. Press in his campaign keynote speech. He sees in this movement a great future benefit for the farmer, but says so far it has all been accomplished "without the aid of the Nonpartisan League."

League Personalities Discussed.

"Some attention is devoted to the personalities of the league leaders. William Lemke, the book says, got ideas while in the University of North Dakota from reading 'Soldiers of Fortune' and similar romances."

"He dreamed of vast landed possessions in a western land. He purchased a small tract of land on land for a home and to be the owner of a favorite pastime of the book, 'The Farmer's Boy,' he hoped to be a successful farmer. He failed. He then dreamed of a socialist state in North Dakota and of himself as one of its leaders. If not its dictator," the dream has largely been fulfilled, he says, and Lemke has been the real political boss."

"Governor Lynn J. Frazier is termed a solid, unemotional, unblinded and kindly farmer." He owes his adoption by the league, says Judge Bruce, to the facts that he was a classmate of William Lemke, that he was a farmer, and above all, to the fact that he appeared to be one who would be willing to serve in the trenches rather than assume leadership." He has acted at all times, Judge Bruce asserts, on the dictation or suggestion of A. C. Townley and of William Lemke."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Nancy and Nick did not go up to the sky again with Mr. Sprinkle-Blow. What was the use? The fairyman told them that after one big celebration in the fall, Howdy Thunder and Jumpy Lightning and Old Man Flood usually went to sleep until spring. He also said that Sizzly Dry Weather never stuck his nose out of doors until late the next summer. As for Jack Frost, he assured them that Jack was of more help than they could imagine after a certain time in the fall, and that although he had escaped and was hiding somewhere in the woods, there was no need to worry about him any more.

"But," wondered Nick, "don't you have to make snow storms?"

"Yes, sir," replied Sprinkle-Blow. "But that's the only job I have. Just enough to keep my mind off my troubles. Once every two or three days I whistle for Old North Wind to roll some heavy snow clouds over the world for me and give them a good shake. The Snow Fairies fly down and make the world beautiful. Then I turn and go to sleep until it's time for more snow. Jack Frost looks after the rest of it. He's a hard worker all winter long. Busiest person you ever knew!"

"Oh," said Nick. "That reminds me. A letter came for you from the Fairy Queen. Here it is."

"Dear Mr. Sprinkle-Blow,

Please send Jack Frost at once. He is needed on the earth to sweeten the grapes and pumpkins, to crack open the berries and to paint the leaves on the trees different colors. Scramble Sprinkles and Chuck Chickadee can't wait till he comes. Tell the Twins, please, that I wish to see them."

Chicago, Sept. 12. Failure of rain predictions in Argentina had a bullish effect on the wheat market today. Opening quotations which varied from 2-4 decline to 1-2 cent advance were followed by moderate gains all around.

CORN IS BEST N. D. CROP THIS YEAR-SURRATT

North Dakota Statistician For
Department of Agriculture
Gives Report

GRAIN YIELDS IRREGULAR

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 12.—(Grain yields extremely irregular, corn and hay crops a low average, potato prospects near average and other crops below average, are the more prominent features of the September 12 report of the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates for North Dakota.

The corn, which is the main crop, shows that the state wheat yields are not quite up to expectations. This decline is due largely to the record breaking July heat with damage to late fields from blight, forced ripening, rust, and spotted drought continuing into early August. Excessive rains from August 26th to 28th largely confined to the northeastern counties, cut it about 20 per cent of the grain crops throughout causing spotted damage from sprouting in the shock and bleaching throughout this district. Scattered early fields over the state will grow No. 2 and the bulk of the wheat crop is more or less shrunken and will grade from No. 2 to 1. The state average will be about No. 2. Crops in general, more spotted, are noticeably more favorable in the northern than in the southern half of the state with the more favorable yields reported in the northeastern and northern counties. The Wells county area reports the most favorable crops in the central section of the state. All crops are poor with numerous failures in the section of the state south of the Northern Pacific line and west of Stutsman county. Practically a failure in the extreme southwest. Other counties showing spotted to poor condition are: Hanson, southeast in Barnes, southwestern Cass, northwestern Northland, Burleigh, Kidder, eastern McLean, eastern Ward, McHenry, eastern Bottineau, northwestern Benson, western Cavalier, and most of Mott, Pierce and Towner counties.

Corn Best Crop

Corn stands out as the best crop in the state with the maturity of the bulk of the crop assured on September 1st. The prospect for both grain and forage is especially favorable in the eastern and northern section of the state.

The state flax outlook was noticeably lowered during August due to drought and hopper damage in the western sections. Conditions have been unfavorable dry for flax except in the northeastern and northwestern counties, and much of the crop shows a poor fall with only fair quality. State crop is below average. Practically the entire crop has matured without frost damage.

The past month has been favorable for potatoes. This will apply especially to the main commercial belt covering the eastern and northern sections. Most of the crop in this area was late and has shown splendid development following the beneficial rains and change to cooler early in August. The United States potato crop showed a gain of 1,000,000 bushels during August but remains far below the average. The estimate of the total crop promise for the United States on September 1st is placed at 225,000,000 bushels compared to 228,000,000 bushels a year ago and the five year average of 271,000,000 bushels.

Estimates for State

Excepting the drought area in the southwest the forage feed situation in the state is well above the average. Very favorable in the northern half of the state.

The condition and production estimates for the principal North Dakota crops are: Wheat condition 56 per cent of normal indicating a yield per acre of approximately 2 bushels per acre and a state production of 67,151,000 bushels compared to 68,199,000 bushels last year and five year average of 81,623,000 bushels. Oats condition 56 per cent with production outlook of 19,196,000 bushels compared to 20,640,000 bushels last year and average of 27,245,000 bushels. Barley condition 60 per cent. Production outlook 19,751,000 bushels compared to 22,880,000 bushels last year and average of 29,400,000 bushels. Corn condition 88 per cent. Probable production 19,223,000 bushels compared to 17,061,000 bushels last year and five year average of 16,917,000 bushels. Flax condition placed at 60 per cent indicating a state production of 2,861,000 bushels.

bushels compared to 189,000 bushels last year and average of 5,679,000 bushels. State potato condition 73 per cent which promises a production of 1,000,000 bushels compared to 1,110,000 bushels last year and average of 1,000,000 bushels. The yield of tame hay is estimated to be 1.5 tons compared to 1.7 tons last year and the average of 1.7 tons per acre. The yield per acre of wild hay for the state is estimated to be one ton per acre compared to one ton last year and an average of .97 tons. Alfalfa yield for the state is estimated to be 2.4 tons per acre compared to two tons per acre a year. State pasture condition estimated to be 73 per cent compared to 62 per cent last year and ten year average of 69 per cent.

WILTON MINERS ON FULL TIME; OUTPUT GROWS

Washburn Lignite Coal Company Finds Increased Demand For Good Lignite

The Washburn Lignite Coal company has placed its Wilton mines on a six-day basis and within a few weeks will be employing many extra men, it is announced by the company. During the summer season the company has been operating part time, but with the preparations for winter business the output of the mine is being increased rapidly. About 400 men will be employed in the winter.

The use of lignite coal is increasing according to G. W. Stewart, assistant manager of the mine. The company ships a great deal of coal into western Minnesota, sells coal within 100 miles of Minneapolis and much coal in South Dakota, he said. While people have been slow to lay in their winter supply of coal, the demand is now growing and the demand for good lignite will be heavy, Mr. Stewart predicts.

The Washburn Lignite company mine has a capacity of 2,500 tons a day. The company has been mining coal since 1902, increasing the production nearly every year. Last year a new steel tippie was erected. The mines now are electrically lighted and while mules are used in making short hauls of coal 50 feet under the ground electrically-propelled cars are used in the main channels of the mine. The mine is entirely dry.

The company puts on the market three different kinds of coal, by a screening process, making the grades most the requirements of individuals and various industries. Flour mills and other big plants in the state are using more lignite for fuel and power than ever before, Mr. Stewart says.

GASTON RUTLEDGE BEING FED HIS DINNER.

Tenn., Sept. 12.—Two-year-old Gaston Rutledge hasn't had a bit to eat for six months.

But he has been kept alive by pouring milk through a tube which is inserted in his stomach. And Gaston is gaining weight.

Last April he swallowed some concentrated lye. It seared his throat. Several operations failed to dilate it and he was slowly starved to death.

Then physicians inserted the tube. They have practically abandoned hope of dilating the throat and fear Gaston must take his food through the tube for the rest of his life.

Receipts Drop Off and Demand Improves

South St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 12.—With receipts dropping off and demand improving, the lamb market came back strong this week, gaining fully $1.00, while sheep and feeder classes are closing about 50 cents higher. Best native lambs $7.75 at the close with choice westerns quoted able to $8.50 or better. Bulk good ewes $3.50 to $3.75. Good western lambs quotable from $5.75 to $6.50.

Some increase in cattle marketings has caused prices to show moderate losses at most large markets the past week, but under the influence of continued light receipts the local market has maintained practically a steady

Charm of Motherhood

THERE are many homes once childless that now are blessed with healthy, happy children, because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored the mother to a healthy, normal physical condition.

The following letters give the experience of two young women and prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Chicago, Ill.—"I was always tired, my head always ached, and my back ached until I could hardly stand the pain. I doctored for years, and the doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, and that I could not have children. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles of it and it helped me wonderfully, and I now have a fine baby boy, thanks to what your medicine did for me in restoring my health. I can highly recommend the Compound to all women who suffer from female ills."—Mrs. Wm. Kerns, 304 Willow St., Chicago, Ill.

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a very nervous condition, was irregular, and could not have any children. I took doctor's medicine without success, and he advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon felt benefitted by its use, became regular, and now we have a fine baby girl after having been married nine years. I am always glad to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends who suffer from such troubles."—Mrs. H. B. Held, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.
